Barren Earth, Pregnant Mother

Uprooted Retribution

Jocelyn Johnson (She/Her) is an 18 year old queer artist studying fine arts at the University of Ottawa. Her art reflects what she is passionate about. Jocelyn's paintings hold stories and messages, and she tries to elicit pensive and meaningful reactions from viewers. As the Earth, and its inhabitants continue to be exploited by systems we contribute to, Jocelyn often feels lost and angry. Her art is a way for her to simultaneously work through my personal feelings and raise awareness on the issues humans have created.
